Survey Methodology

The Asian American Decisions 2016 Election Eve Poll is a national survey of 2,391 interviews with self-identified Asian Americans who had already voted early, or were certain to vote in the November 8, 2016 general election. The survey was in field between November 1st and November 7th, 2016. 48% of the sample reported voting early and 52% were certain to vote. Interviews were conducted using a blended sample of online surveys (50%) and telephone calls on landlines (30%) and cellphones (20%). Telephone interviews were conducted with live callers and with bilingual interviewers available at the point of contact for those respondents needing a Chinese, Korean, Tagalog, or Vietnamese language interview. Overall, 76% of interviews were completed in English and 24% in an Asian language.

The total sample consists of a nationally representative sample of 863 respondents and state-specific oversamples of between 206 and 248 respondents. The survey's overall margin of error is +/-2 percentage points. The individual states sampled -- Florida, Illinois, Nevada, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Texas, Virginia, California carry a state-specific margin of error ranging from ±6.2% to ±6.8%. The results in these toplines have been weighted to reflect the known Census demographics for Asian American adult citizens.

The poll was sponsored by the AAPI Civic Engagement Fund. Other poll sponsors include SEIU, Asian Americans Advancing Justice-Los Angeles, Asian American Legal Defense and Education Fund, and the National Education Association.
